Creadom8 Inc. Announces Headquarters Relocation and Studio Opening

Creadom8 Inc.

July 24, 2025, 10:00 AM JST

Anime Company 'Creadom8', Founded by the former President & CEO of Bandai Namco Pictures, to Relocate to Tokyo Content Incubation Center and Open New Studio

Creadom8 Inc. (Head office: Shinjuku, Tokyo; CEO: Masayuki Ozaki), a new anime company established in October 2024 with a focus on planning and producing short animations and character-based content, will relocate its headquarters and open an in-house animation studio at the Tokyo Content Incubation Center (TCIC) in Nakano, Tokyo, effective August 1, 2025.

With the establishment of our in-house studio, we are now equipped to produce not only short-form anime, but also full-length TV series and feature films.

In conjunction with this move, the company has newly formulated its Vision and Values, in addition to its existing Mission.

New Headquarters Overview

Access:

1-minute walk from Nakano-Sakaue Station (Exit 1)

– Tokyo Metro Marunouchi Line

– Toei Oedo Line

Relocation Date:

Friday, August 1, 2025

Background to the Relocation

In recent years, the growing volume of anime productions has made it increasingly difficult to secure reliable animation production pipelines. Since its establishment, Creadom8 has focused solely on content planning and production, outsourcing animation to external studios. However, due to industry circumstances, the company has determined that building an in-house studio is essential to ensure stable development and streamlined formation of production committees (anime industry funding consortiums).

We also plan to begin producing full-length TV animation series in the future. In addition, we are preparing to expand into licensing, in-house merchandising, and the launch of new business ventures. These initiatives are expected to require staff expansion. By locating within TCIC, a hub for content startups, the company aims to foster organic collaboration and invigorate communication among its team, accelerating the creation of original IP and the launch of new initiatives.

Mission, Vision, and Values (MVV)

Mission

To connect the world's creative power, and connect the world through the power of entertainment.

Vision

To awaken the creativity inherent in everyone, transcend borders and cultures through shared emotion, and realize a free and enriching world.

Values

Deliver joyful surprises with pride and compassion—and shine while doing so.

About the Name “Creadom8”

The company name Creadom is a coined term combining the roots of “create” and “creative” with the suffix “-dom,” as seen in words like “freedom,” “kingdom,” and “fandom.” The number 8 symbolizes prosperity and infinity, representing our aspirations for boundless business expansion.

We look forward to your continued support as Creadom8 steps onto the global stage.

About Tokyo Content Incubation Center (TCIC)

The Tokyo Content Incubation Center (TCIC) is a startup support facility established by the Tokyo Metropolitan Government, dedicated to the content industry. Through hands-on support for entrepreneurs, TCIC aims to become a hub for content development and dissemination, energizing the content industry in Tokyo and contributing to the broader advancement of Japanese creative businesses.

Profile: Masayuki Ozaki, CEO

Born in 1970 in Osaka, Japan. After graduating from Osaka University, Ozaki joined Sumitomo Bank, where he worked in branch operations and later managed portfolios and structured finance at the headquarters' capital markets division.

In 2000, he joined GAGA Communications, where he handled acquisition and distribution of Hollywood films and joint ventures, building extensive experience in the global entertainment business.

In 2004, he moved to Sunrise Inc., producing and licensing original anime works such as "TIGER & BUNNY" and later served as a board member overseeing international licensing. In 2010, he helped launch a live entertainment subsidiary, producing anime-based stage plays and musicals.

In 2015, Ozaki led the spin-off of Sunrise into Bandai Namco Pictures Inc., serving as its founding President & CEO until 2022. He later helped launch Bandai Namco Music Live Inc., overseeing the construction of a 2,000-seat theater in Shibuya and incorporating it as Bandai Namco Base Inc. in 2024.

In October 2024, he founded Creadom8 Inc., embarking on a new journey to produce anime and character-driven entertainment.
