Christmas-Limited Afternoon Tea, Colored Together With Artist Midori Miki

～ An uplifting winter teatime, savored at a Hotel Like a Museum ～

Park Hotel Tokyo (Operated by Shiba Park Hotel Co., Ltd. / Minato-ku, Tokyo / President: Noriyoshi Tanaka), which exhibits and sells more than 400 works of art throughout the hotel, will offer a Christmas-limited afternoon tea created in collaboration with artist Midori Miki — "Art Colours Afternoon Tea — Where Colours Tell Their Stories — A Petite Gallery in the Afternoon" — at ART colours Dining on the 25th floor from December 1 (Tue.) to December 25 (Fri.), 2026. Miki is currently creating an Artist Room at the hotel — a guest room finished in its entirety as a single work of art — and guests can enjoy her world together with flavors distinctive to the holiday season.

"Art Colours Afternoon Tea," coloring the holiday season.

Miki is an artist who presents her work in Japan and abroad under the theme of “a concept of bliss that goes beyond kawaii (cuteness).” She paints food in its fresh, beautiful state and in its decayed, collapsing state within the same picture, and by combining elements such as jewels and ribbons she draws out the transience, attachment and memory that lie behind surface-level cuteness. Through these opposing expressions she asks after “happiness,” the essence of cuteness, and the “love” and “eternity” that lie beyond it.

On the Corridor Gallery Terrace on the hotel’s 26th floor, guests can view Midori Miki’s work “YOUR GIFT.” Miki regards the act of presenting her work as itself a gift, and she treasures the joy of thinking of someone and the happiness that an encounter with a work can bring. Taking inspiration from that sentiment, the hotel has given form, as a Christmas teatime, to the uplifting feeling of giving a present to someone dear. The item that symbolizes this collaboration is the Christmas parfait, “Midori Miki × Strawberry parfait.” Into a glass layered with an abundance of strawberries, the hotel has packed the cuteness that calls Miki’s work to mind, along with the elation of the moment a gift is opened.

The tea stand is arrayed with sweets that speak of Christmas, including White tiramisu and Lemon and yogurt bûche de Noël. The illustration and design of the menu card were also created in collaboration with Miki, so guests can enjoy her world not only in the food but in the menu card itself.

Under the concept of a Hotel Like a Museum, Park Hotel Tokyo runs its Artist in Hotel project, in which an artist stays at the hotel and completes an entire guest room as a work of art. Miki is currently creating an Artist Room as part of this project. Ahead of its completion, this afternoon tea offers an early encounter with her world.

The shape of happiness an artist paints, the flavors of Christmas a pâtissier crafts, and the view of Tokyo spreading beyond the windows — we invite you to savor an afternoon tea only Park Hotel Tokyo could offer, where all of it is enjoyed as art.
